What Is Nft?

- A Non-Fungible Token [NFT] is a cryptographic asset recorded on a blockchain that certifies ownership and authenticity of a unique digital or physical item.
- Non-fungible means it is unique and cannot be replaced one-to-one like money or crypto currencies.
- An NFT can represent things like digital art, music, videos, game items, or collectibles.
- Ownership is stored securely on a blockchain, which acts like a digital public record .

Security & Transparency Built on blockchain open and verifiable

Real-Time Monitoring:

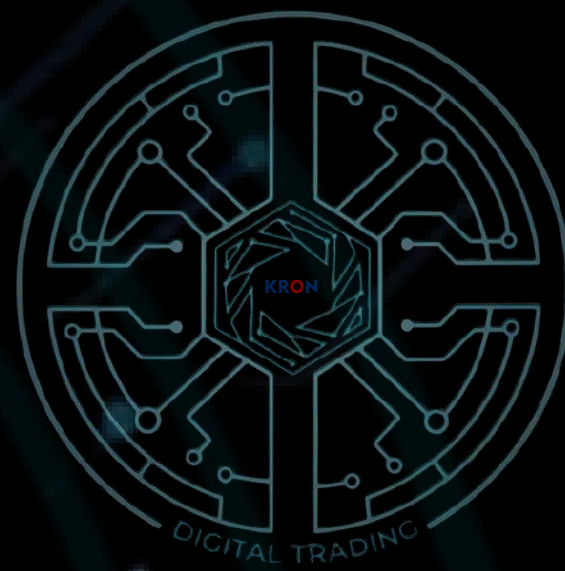

Earnings, assets, and network activity are updated live within the user dashboard.

Non-Custodial Security:

The platform does not store private keys; users retain full control via MetaMask.

Subscription Policy:

Access requires KYC approval. Valid for 17 days [no referrals] or ends upon reaching 2x/3x profit. Profit starts at 20 USDT [40 USDT after renewal]. Missing over 3 trading days stops referral income; max earnings capped at 150 USDT.

On-Chain Transparency:

All transactions are permanently recorded on the Polygon blockchain, ensuring full transparency and verifiability.

Automated & Cost-Efficient Operations:

Payments are executed through auditable smart contracts with low transaction fees on Polygon.

KYC Compliance:

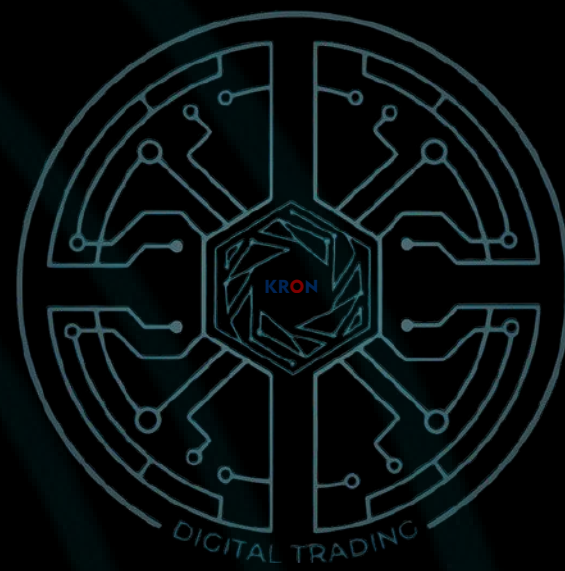

Identity verification is mandatory; all submitted documents are encrypted. Fraudulent information may result in permanent restriction of access and upgrade eligibility.

Trading Rules

- Users are required to maintain a balance of 120 USDT to start trading activities
- You must complete your trade within 24 hours Missing the window cuts your referral income for the next day
- It is mandatory for users to execute trades on the NFT shown in their dashboard. If a user fails to complete the trade within the given timeframe, they may possibly lose eligibility for the daily profit
- The daily number of trading activities is automatically defined and regulated by the system, and may vary according to system settings or operational requirements

Referral Rules
